

Myson aids industry with Bimstore product information

Leading heating solutions provider MYSON has made details of a range of its innovative heating products available, free of charge, live on Bimstore, helping specifiers to take a more holistic approach to selecting the best heating products for their project. Bimstore is the free online resource for specifiers at www.bimstore.co.uk which makes BIM objects from manufacturers easily accessible as a central resource for architects, M&E contractors, heating installers and the construction industry as a whole.

A range of Myson products are already included on Bimstore, with more to follow. Current key products include the Myson Premier HE and Myson Select radiator ranges, which are the first choice for many specifiers in housing applications on both private and public sectors. Also listed is the Myson low surface temperature (LST) range, which is specifically designed to provide compliance in care environments; and its recently launched Plan Compact and Plan Compact Plus ranges, which are ideal for corporate and design-led applications. Also listed is the Myson Décor radiator, the Avonmore towel warmer and the steel Column radiator.

“Placing Myson products on Bimstore will make essential BIM information more easily accessible for specifiers,” said Andrew Lowery, Marketing Manager for Myson. “Objects can be downloaded and incorporated directly into design applications so that heating systems can be included in a building’s design from its earliest stages, helping specifiers to make the wisest product decisions from the outset. This kind of foresight and clear vision fits with our own ethos of adopting the best tailored approach for every project, based on an unbiased selection of the best combination of products to create a total heating solution.”
